2015 Public Policy in Action
Inaugural Lecture Series

Co-Sponsored By:
The Education Policy Center of the College of Education
And
The Master of Public Administration Program in the Department of Political Science of the College of Arts and Sciences

Featuring Alabama State Senator
Vivian Davis Figures

When: Wednesday February 25, 2015 - 6:00 P.M.
Where: ten Hoor Hall, Room 111

The 2015 Public Policy in Action Lecture Series will bring seasoned federal and state level public policy-makers to The University of Alabama to discuss salient policy issues, including higher education policy as well as other general public policy issues. The series is an opportunity for students to better understand the life of a public leader.

The broad topic of public policy is intended to provide a forum where speakers can talk about whatever they desire. We will ask public policy-makers: How did he/she become involved in public life? How did prior positions prepare him/her for the leadership role they now hold? How can we make democratic institutions operate and function more effectively?
